ANYTHING GOES

Directed and Designed by
John D. McConnell

Presented by special arrangement of Toms-
Witmark Music Library.

FROM THE DIRECTOR'S PROMPTBOOK:

Where's my sailor hat? . . . Those are my shoes. . . Is this the finale? . . . Johnny, my dress is on backwards!

When we selected "Anything Goes" we had no idea how true the title was going to be. For the past seven weeks "everything HAS gone". We've walked up stairs, danced down aisles, and fallen over sets. Hats have flown, shoes have flown, and tempers have flown. But it all seems worthwhile now that we have mastered the dance steps, the gangplank, and the false eyelashes.

We hope you are as enthusiastic about "Anything Goes" as we are. As Hope Harcourt says, "It's Delightful! It's Delicious! It's Delovely!"

DEDICATION

The best part of a production once it opens is to thank someone who made it seem worthwhile. Of course the director thanks the cast and crews for their work, but that's natural. As director, I would like to thank Sallie Wood, the orchestra director, for her assistance on the production. She is my biggest fan and my harshest critic. She is honest enough to tell me when something doesn't work and nice enough to tell me why. If it weren't for Sallie I would have no show, no hair, and no sanity. As it is I have my show and my hair--two out of three isn't a bad average.
